

IT'S TRUE, I'M ORANGE

I have this feeling sometimes that everyone wants me to conform. It seems that all my life my family and school wanted me to be more like them. But guess what, I learn through my experiences. So I would rather figure it out myself than ask for help. Nobody can handle tools as well as I can. I don't care if it's a paintbrush or a scalpel. I love to take risks and have fun. I am energized by my work and you need something started, give it to me! But if it's going to get boring, don't expect me to stick around when that happens.

It's true. I just want to enjoy life! I don't want to be serious about it. Life is just a game and all that really matters is right now. So come on and play with me.

Just DO IT!